Dear Colleague,

I've sent you a letter I authored that I hope you can sign and email to the IEEE members (as shown). If the IEEE in the US manages to promote more relaxed RF standards based on its current evaluation (which bases definitions of "effect" and "harm" on CONCLUSIVE SCIENTIFIC PROOF - and not the WHO precautionary principle of health), then I fear that the "harmonization" efforts will be overtaken by the US based on the new IEEE demand for proof. It could set back European efforts as well as our own.

Please distribute this letter to all who would be interested, including members of the public, government and researchers. Think of it as a "resolution" like the Vienna or Salzburg.

If you've received another copy of this, forgive us....we'd rather err on the side of caution!

Thanks,
